ADDIS ABABA, Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—The foreign ministry announced today that Ethiopia, "persisting in a peaceful solution" of the dispute with Italy, demands the immediate convocation of the council of the League of Nations.

Failure to agree in the Italian-Ethiopian conciliation commission meeting at Scheveningen, The Netherlands, "following the refusal of the Italian arbitrators to examine the question of Ualul" did not surprise Ethiopian government circles, the announcement said.

Proof of Claim
The Italians' unwillingness to take up this question was termed new proof of the justice of Ethiopia's claims against the illegal occupation of its territory and the Italian aggression of Dec. 5, 1934.

The Italian arbitrators, insisting that discussion be confined to the actual blame for the Ualul border clash in which 30 Italians and 110 Ethiopians were reported killed, declined to entertain, or even listen to, Ethiopia's contention that Ualul is situated on Ethiopian territory.

The foreign minister addressed letters to the representatives of a number of European nations protesting against the refusal of certain European arms factories to deliver to Ethiopia war material "which is necessary for the defense of integrity and independence."

Word From Washington
These letters were sent to the Belgian minister, to the French minister, who also represents Czechoslovakia, and to the British minister, who also represents Sweden and Denmark.

LAGUNANS ASK INJUNCTION

Object Paying Tustin Taxes

Trustees of the Laguna Beach school district yesterday instituted an action in superior court seeking to enjoin the county from levying a tax against property in the beach city for the purpose of paying the bonded indebtedness of the Tustin Union High school district.

The action was started by John C. Gibson, William J. Harris and Mrs. O. H. Sortwell as members of the Laguna school district. Defendants named in the suit are Supervisors John C. Mitchell, N. E. West, Willard Smith, Leroy Lyon and William C. Jerome, County Auditor W. T. Lambert, Tax Collector Lamb and County Treasurer E. B. Trago.

L. W. Blodgett, Santa Ana city attorney, is representing the members of the Laguna Beach school board. The county supervisors, it was said today, will be forced to retain special counsel for the hearing as the district attorney's office is disqualified from serving as legal advisor to all school boards, as well as the county supervisors.

Case Up July 19
Superior Judge J. J. Moncur, sitting in department 1, superior court, signed an order yesterday citing the county officials into court July 19 to show cause why a temporary restraining order shall not be issued pending a hearing on the petition to make the order permanent.

Governor Conducts Hearing Today on H. B. Drilling Bill

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—Development of the vast oil resources of California hidden in the publicly-owned tidelands, one of the most bitterly debated policies in the state, was to be laid before Gov. Merriam late today for a decision.

Late this afternoon he was to open a hearing upon AB1684, better known as the Burns bill, which would permit the state surveyor general to lease the state's oil tidelands to petroleum producers, who would be permitted to develop them by whipstock drilling.

The measure is one of three strongly-contested bills which passed the legislature and which have turned into the governor's office a flood of protests and demands for signing.

Two More This Week
Hearings on the two other bills, the Cronin-McMurray chain store measure, will be conducted tomorrow and Friday, along with consideration of some other bills upon which hearings have been demanded before the governor acts.

The governor has indicated he would limit the hearings on each bill to 30 or 40 minutes. The Burns bill was drafted out of months of controversy over the disclosure several years ago that oil companies operating wells in the rich Huntington Beach field had tapped the adjacent state tideland pool.

Although direct tideland drilling is strictly outside the law, the companies had succeeded in reaching the pool by a new engineering development in oil production, whipstock or slantwise drilling. By this method a well might be started hundreds of feet from the pool and drilled into it at an angle.

Operators Prosecuted
Surveys and secret night investigations by state officials in which pictures were obtained of the illegal operations led to prosecution of the violators in the courts and finally a compromise. This took the form of agreements by the companies to pay royalties to the state aggregating more than a million dollars a year.

With the convening of the fifty-first legislature last January, a move was inaugurated to legalize tideland drilling by whipstock methods. The argument was advanced that even if whipstocking were outlawed, state pools might be drained by legitimate operations adjacent to the reservoirs, and this could be prevented and the state benefited by royalties if a full development were permitted.

It was also argued that whipstocking would do away with the strong public objection to ruination of the beaches by direct tideland drilling and still would permit development of the rich tidelands.

Independents Protested
The Burns bill proposed to put in the hands of the state surveyor general the right to negotiate leases of the tidelands to owners of littoral lands, or lands adjacent to the state's ocean pools. From these littoral lands, whipstock wells could be drilled, the developers paying the state a scale of royalties.

"The affairs of the city demand peace," said Finance Commissioner A. Miles Pratt and Property Commissioner Joseph P. Skelly in a signed statement.

UTILITY BILL WALEY TRIAL IS PONDERED END NEARS

Senate Sends Measure To Conference, Urges President's Plan
TACOMA, Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—Government and defense attorneys today drove toward a swift ending of Mrs. Margaret Thulin Waley's trial on charges of kidnapping and conspiring to kidnap George Weyerhaeuser, 9-year-old Tacoma boy, for $200,000 ransom.

United States District Attorney J. Charles Dennis, as the second day of the trial got under way in Federal Judge Edward E. Cushman's court, was mustering what he considered the most damaging part of the government's evidence.

With the foundation laid yesterday and the testimony of George Dennis wasted no time in raising his structure of direct and circumstantial evidence.

John F. Dore, chief defense counsel, indicating his belief the trial would end soon by obtaining a court order for the appearance of Mrs. Waley's convict husband, Hermon Metz Waley, this afternoon.

Waley will be brought as a defense witness from the McNeil Island federal penitentiary, where he is serving 45 years after pleading guilty to kidnapping the Weyerhaeuser boy.

Volcano That Killed 36,000 in 1883 Begins New Eruptions Today

BATAVIA, Java, Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—The volcano Krakatoa, which exploded in 1883, killing 36,000 persons, began a series of eruptions today.

The eruptions were occurring at two-minute intervals, and lava was spumed to a height of about 2500 feet. The coast watch maintained by the Netherlands government doubled its arrangements for safety precautions the inland regions should the eruptions become dangerous.

It was reported that the small island of Anakrakatau has disappeared.

IS JUST SMALL VOLCANIC ISLAND

Krakatoa today is only a small volcanic island in the Sunda strait. Geologists believe that in an early period it was part of a large volcano in the center of the tract where Sunda strait now runs.

At some prehistoric time, the big volcano is believed to have exploded and the present islands, including Krakatoa, are peaks formed within the great crater ring.

On August 27, 1883, the whole northern and lower portion of Krakatoa, rising 2623 feet above the sea, blew away. It was estimated that the column of stones, dust and ashes shot up at least 17 miles.

Days Turns Into Night
At Batavia, 100 miles away, the day was turned into night by the ashes. Lamps had to be lit in the homes.

The blast created a worldwide atmospheric disturbance. The atmospheric wave traveled outward from the volcano half-way around the world. The wave then was "reflected," returning in its original direction. Some authorities estimated that this world-wide oscillation of atmosphere occurred seven times.

The actual sound of the explosion was heard as far as 3000 miles away. The dust was carried over the United States to the east and over Asia and Europe to the west.

INFORMATION OF COLLINS CONFIRMED

High Cost Project Is Not Qualified Under New Work Program

BULLETIN RECEIVED

Edict Interpreted as Blasting Chances of U. S. Aid on Job

Congressman Sam L. Collins was 24 hours ahead of news from Washington when he told The Journal yesterday that California has submitted no projects which can qualify for federal aid in the new $4,800,000,000 work relief program.

His information was confirmed today in a bulletin received by Terrance Halloran, director of the State Emergency Relief administration here. Low cost projects, however, can continue in Orange county, much as they have under the SERA, Mr. Halloran said.

However, the edict is interpreted here as meaning that there is no chance for Orange county's flood control project on the Santa Ana river to get federal aid. The same will be true of the Central Valley water project under this ruling.

Water Jobs Costly

Congressman Collins said that the government has set $1140 per man-year as the amount to be spent on construction projects. Because the water projects would cost about twice this amount per man-year, they are regarded as being out in the cold.

Today Mr. Halloran made public the official bulletin, which sets (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

SANTA ANANS NOT EXILES

Lamb Tells Journal of Trip

Denial that Dana Upton Lamb and his wife, Mrs. Virginia Bishop Lamb, formerly of Santa Ana, are going into "voluntary exile" as reported in an Associated Press dispatch of June 18, was made today by the young adventurer in a letter to The Journal from Matias Romero, Oax, Mexico.

"We are not going into 'exile' or giving up our citizenship," the adventurer writes.

In reference to a previous story that the canoists, on the verge of starvation, had been rescued by a fishing boat, Mr. Lamb writes: "We never heard of the fishing boat or its captain who supposedly rescued us; we haven't gone hungry and have suffered no casualties so far."

"It is true we have been lost at sea, wrecked, capsized in storms, spilled in the surf, and have met with many strange and unexpected adventures on our forays inland, but this is all part of the game and we like it."

SCORCHING HEAT WAVE TAKES 7 LIVES IN SOUTHWEST STATES

100 DEGREES PASSED IN ALL AREAS

Four Convicts Overcome While Working; Two Deaths Earlier

KANSAS CITY, Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—Summer held the Southwest in a scorching grip today.

Seven persons died of heat in Texas and Oklahoma yesterday as new high marks were recorded in those states and in Kansas and Missouri. Four of the Texas victims were convicts on state prison farms, three of them Negroes. Earlier in the week there were two heat deaths in Kansas and one in Missouri.

A maximum of 109 degrees was recorded yesterday at Phillipsburg, Kan., and 108 at Dresden, Beaver, Okla., had 107½, while Wilburton, Okla., and Greenville, Tex., sweltered under 107-degree recordings. Maximum of 100 degrees or better were general.

Hundreds of city dwellers spent last night in parks and yards.

The Negro convicts were overcome while working in fields at the Ramsey prison farm in Brazoria county near the gulf, and the white man was on the East-ham farm.

REAL BOY'S JOB, BUSTING BALLOONS

CLEVELAND. (AP)—For a boy—it's the world's grandest job.

Fay Csuri, head bus boy at a Cleveland hotel, spends a great deal of his time every day deflating toy balloons, and he does it by the good old hand sling-shot method of a rubber band and a pin.

It's an old custom of the hotel to present child guests with them in one of the principal dining rooms. Often the child lets go of the string and the balloon floats to the ceiling and, eventually, is forgotten.

That's where Csuri enters. After the guests have departed he "shoots" the balloons down.

ed the bill, contending that leases should be bid for competitively. In this manner, it was argued, the state would receive higher royalties, but the argument was beaten down with the contention that the drillers could stand only so much royalty and beyond that the interest of both driller and the state would be jeopardized.

Other interests fought the bill, contending it was the opening wedge to full tideland drilling, but proponents replied that "if this bill is signed the possibility of direct tideland drilling will be forever removed."

Some independents attacked it from the angle that at Huntington Beach it would give the Standard Oil company a monopoly, inasmuch as Standard owns all the littoral lands adjacent to the state pool.

Effects Agreed
This was disputed with the argument that Standard had a monopoly anyway through ownership of the littoral lands but had consented to easements by which owners of 80 wells located still farther upland had drilled across the Standard property into the pool.

If the bill is signed, Standard has agreed to permit two other companies, Hancock and Signal Oil, to drill offset wells from its property to counteract the effect of 12 Standard wells which are drilled directly down from Standard property, but which may be draining the state pool.

These offsets would be whipstocked and bottomed directly in the pool to equalize the effect of any Standard drainage.
The bill specifies that any royalty agreements must provide for payments of not less than 16.23 per cent of the value of the oil recovered, which is about 4 per cent above the average of the emergency royalty agreements entered into at Huntington Beach. These prior agreements would not be disturbed.

ITALY'S TROOP ROSTER ADVANCED TO 120,000

ROME, Wednesday, July 10. (AP) Italy advanced to 120,000 today its roster of troops designed to drive for an "inexorable" victory over the empire of Ethiopia.

Authoritative sources said Premier Benito Mussolini's first command, with the break-up of the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission, will create two new troop divisions for action in east Africa.

Poet Sees Victory

The famous warrior poet, Gabriele D'Annunzio, wrote to Agostino Lazzarotti, Fascist federal secretary who has volunteered for African service:

"You are going to victory. It is so inexorable—I wish to say fatal—to conquer and to win. The picture of the new greatness cannot be completed without a real Roman triumph against barbarity and against an alliance of barbarism."

The noted author, whose estrangement with Premier Mussolini ended last year when Il Duce visited him at his villa, told his friend Lazzarotti:

'Brand On Back'

"I belong, woe is me, to the generation of Dogali and Adua (where Ethiopians defeated Italians in 1887 and 1896). I still feel an atrocious brand on my back; a brand which should be cancelled and which Il Duce of the new Italy will cancel without delay—against everything and against everybody."

Official circles said that among the many massing for action would be Il Duce's sons Vittorio, 19, and Bruno, 17. Both have volunteered for African service, and officials said they would report for duty at the Foggia military school within a few days to obtain commissions in the regular army.

Aviation circles said Italy's fighting craft were to be kept ready for any eventuality, and that 100 Cyclone engines have been ordered for the mercantile air force.

INJURY FATAL TO WORKER

Roy Elbert Kennedy, 40, steel worker who was injured six weeks ago while on duty at the Columbia Steel company's plant at Torrance, died last night at his home, 268 North Lemon street, Orange.

Mr. Kennedy, a native of Missouri, lived in California four years. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Glorioso mortuary in Orange, with the Rev. Franklin Minck of the Christian church there, officiating. Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Kennedy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Virginia Kennedy; a daughter, Wanda, and three sisters and two brothers, all living in Missouri.

DENIES DROWNING

the maximum at $1000 per man-year for California.

All projects costing more than $25,000 must be handled through the Public Works Administration. Mr. Halloran said, however, that under the new WPA program the bureau showed that smaller projects such as storm drains and street improvements could be carried out as WPA projects. Airports, farm-to-market roads, parks, recreational facilities, sidewalks and gutter projects costing more than $25,000 are excepted and can be handled under the WPA.

How Figure Reached

The government arrived at the $1140 limit by establishing a policy that the $4,800,000,000 shall be distributed equally among the several million unemployed who are to benefit from the new program, Congressman Collins said. By dividing the funds by the number of beneficiaries, the $1140 basic figure was arrived at, he said.

According to information brought back by Supervisor W. C. Jerome from conferences at San Francisco and San Diego recently, California is to be allotted $202,000,000 of the works appropriation. Under the project setup in effect, this would bring the amount to be spent per man-year to $850. Contributions by sponsors of projects would bring this figure up to $1020.

Case Load 92,500

The case load in California is 92,500. Of this number, 38,500 would be cared for with a $71,000,000 portion of the state's allotment, set aside for CCC camps, highway department, forestry, parker dam and army and navy projects. This would leave 54,000 persons to be cared for with the remaining $131,000,000, making an average federal expenditure of $850 per man.

Orange county SERA projects in the past year have averaged between $900 and $1000 per man, said Mr. Halloran, who stated similar projects can be carried out under the WPA.

MORE ABOUT LAGUNA

The Tustin Union High school district. February 17, 1931, the beach district withdrew from the Tustin district with the agreement that the Tustin district would assume responsibility for all bonded indebtedness as soon as the Laguna Beach district established its own high school.

The beach community organized a high school district June 10, 1932, which was declared lapsed by the state board of education a year later. In September, 1933, the high school district was re-organized and last June bonds for building a new high school were voted. In the meantime Laguna Beach high school students were attending school at Tustin and the district paid the tuition.

Tax Rates Explained

Under the agreement the Laguna Beach district continued to pay its share of the Tustin district bonded debt until the new high school was constructed. No assessment was paid last year, according to the complaint.

Petitioning for a restraining order, trustees of the Laguna Beach district pointed out that the school tax rate in both Laguna and Tustin, prior to the date of withdrawal, was 12 cents. Following withdrawal the school rate on Tustin property went to 17 cents. The Laguna Beach bond issue for high school purposes established the rate in that district at 14 cents.

If the action now in court is not successful and the county is permitted to levy taxes to pay the bonded debt, the trustees claim that for the next 13 years property in the beach city will be assessed a total of 26 cents, being a combination of the district's own 14 cent rate and the Tustin rate of 12 cents.

OPIUM TRAFFIC REELING UNDER CHINESE ATTACK

NANKING. (AP)—The Chinese government is scoring heavily in its smashing offensive against the opium traffic in this country. Dr. J. Heng Liu, director of the health administration, has reported to the national government.

START WORK IN MUSEUM THIS WEEK

Construction work to pave the way for opening of the Bowers Memorial museum will start this week.

Mrs. F. E. Coulter, curator, was informed yesterday by Fred P. Jayne, head of the professional, technical and women workers division of the State Emergency Relief administration, that men will be put to work this week on construction jobs necessary to make the building ready for occupancy as a museum.

The museum board of directors will meet at 9 a. m. Saturday to work out details connected with launching the project and to confer with Mrs. Coulter on methods of operating the museum.

Must Start by 15th
Construction work, including the building of a store room, a fence, and glass cabinets, must start before July 15. An SERA order has been received to the effect that all pending projects must be started by that time. After that projects will be handled by the new Works Progress Administration.

Mrs. Coulter and Miss Lula Minter, secretary of the museum board, will go to San Diego tomorrow for a two-day study of methods of operating similar institutions there. The procedure for displaying and keeping records on a large number of exhibits will require careful preparation, it is anticipated.

Sees Other Museums

In the past few days Mrs. Coulter has been making similar surveys at the museum in Exposition park at Los Angeles, and next week will study methods at the Southwest museum there. F. W. Hodge, head of the latter institution, has expressed considerable interest in the Bowers museum, as have other museum leaders in the Southland.

Saturday's meeting of the board of directors was called by T. E. Stephenson, chairman. Members in addition to Mr. Stephenson and Miss Minter, are Col. S. H. Finley, Dr. C. D. Ball and Robert Brown.

Tips On Contract

By TOM O'NEIL

FREAK SLAM

A slam hand in which cards of every suit were bunched with opponents comes to me from "Hank" Carlton of New York. There were three voids and two singletons. Exhaustion of adverse trumps had to be deferred until the last few tricks.

Insomuch as at double dummy one has to stop and think a bit to confine the losses to one trick, credit must be given to "Hank" for his success at the contract with only two hands visible.

The bidding by North and South, with the others passing, was: one heart; two clubs; two hearts; three spades; four diamonds; five clubs; six spades. East doubled on his club and diamond honors and the possibility of spades being bunched West. South redoubled.

The singleton club, opened by West, afforded a parking space for a diamond loser from the North hand. East played the nine-spots and South took the trick with the ten.

Probing for the right method to play the hand, Carlton, sitting South, led the jack of hearts and ace of clubs. West discarded a heart and the five of hearts was chucked from the North hand. A low club was led. West threw a diamond and the trick was taken with the deuce of spades North.

The declarer now made up his mind that East had doubled not from length in trumps, but from lack of them. From North the three top hearts were led, clubs being discarded from the South hand. West threw three diamonds. From the North hand there followed the ace and king of diamonds. On them the last clubs were thrown from the South hand. West had to trump the diamond king. Four high trumps took the last four tricks.

Had West trumped the lead of the ace of clubs on the third trick, a heart would have been discarded from the North hand. Had West then returned a heart, a diamond would have been led from North and trumped South. West's trumps could have been exhausted and then the rest of the tricks could have been taken with high hearts and diamonds.

DALLAS, Tex.—J. A. Posey tumbled into 100 feet of water in a huge tank here and H. Duncan fell in trying to rescue Posey. While it was a poser, Posey finally decided to yank off a boot and toss it over the tank wall as a plea for help. It worked. The boot fell near another workman who notified the fire department. Rescues followed.

CREPE PRINT IS PARIS EDICT

PARIS, Saturday, July 6. (AP)—New gadgets mark the latest edition of printed crepe ensembles which Paris has voted "ace high" in chic and practicality for hot weather wear in town.

Sleeves are shorter, fastenings larger and new cuts appear in the wraps.
"Show at least part of your arm," seems to be the latest word on hot weather outfits, for short-sleeved jackets and sleeveless coats are much used to top the printed frocks, themselves designed with half or five-eighths length sleeves.

Big silver leaves, gold clovers and metal disks chained together clip the neck and waistlines of the frocks and their lightweight wraps. The fastenings have grown so large that only one or two can be used on one model.

Dresses themselves are quite simple in design. Their necklines may be either high or low, their sleeves are almost always comparatively short, their skirts fairly full with most of that fullness concentrated in front.

them to accent a blue and white printed satin afternoon frock which she wore with a wide brimmed hat of navy blue straw at a recent tea.

POLICE REPORTS

Petty theft of four micrometers from Kinslow Machine shop, 2 p. m., yesterday.

Mrs. P. A. Gettle, 120 Owens drive, wants either her dog or an officer to guard home.

Howling dog in 1100 block on South Van Ness.

Pretty theft from car belonging to R. W. Kirk, 826 South Sycamore. Five wrenches and a rear view mirror stolen.

Armando Trujillo, 34, 402 Adams street, Santa Ana, arrested on auto theft charge.

Wants Either Dog or Officer To Guard Home

Mrs. P. A. Gettle of 120 Owens drive either wants her little black and white fox terrier returned to her, or a policeman to watch her home at night. She told officers that the dog was her sole means of protection, and since Pound-master H. D. Pickering had picked the animal up yesterday because it did not have a license tag, she was left subject to burglaries.

Mr. Pickering informed Mrs. Gettle she could have the dog just as soon as she paid the city dog license tax, and that until she did he would keep the dog.

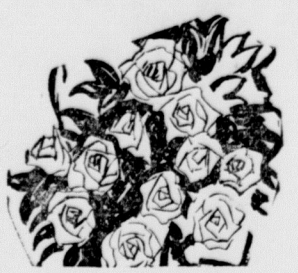

The report filed at the police department failed to mention whether an officer was substituted for the dog last night.

LET YOUR NEXT RANGE BE ELECTRIC

OIL DRILLING TEST DUE TO BEGIN SOON

Evidence of definite plans for drilling activity by the Continental Oil company on its 1000-acre lease west of Santa Ana was seen today when it was learned that the site of the first well has been selected.

The first hole will be drilled not far from the center of the lease, probably in the vicinity of Willets street, within the city limits. It will be the test well of the lease, and the test is expected to be a deep one if necessary.

The actual time for commencing operations has not been determined, but the company's lease agreement provides that drilling must commence not later than October 1. Property owners who have leased their land expect that work will commence in three or four weeks.

There will be only one well at the start of operations, but the lease agreement provides that if oil is found in paying quantities, another well must be drilled within 90 days. After that, operations will be continuous. If other oil companies drill adjacent to the Continental lease, it is provided that the latter company must drill offset holes. Property owners will get a one-sixth royalty on all oil produced.

Leases Recently Completed
The Continental completed its leases several weeks ago, after several months of negotiations. Several other concerns have attempted to make leases in the past in order to test the oil strata believed to underlie the surface, but their operations never have culminated in drilling. The Continental will be the first concern actually to tap the area west of Santa Ana. The last drilling operations in or near Santa Ana were carried out about eight years ago by Charles K. Son of Los Angeles, who bored a hole on Santa Clara avenue east of Santa Ana. The well never was a producer.

BOOK EXPORTS GROW

She leaves her husband; two daughters, Miss Esther and Miss Alice Almquist, and two sons, Harry and Bruno Almquist.

Dr. E. L. Russell, Santa Ana, will speak on "The Game of Life" at a meeting of the Ragers, organization of outdoor sports lovers, at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Swimming, games and a program of songs also will be held, according to Herbert Thomas, associate secretary.

Household Arts

In these days of electricity, everything must be done quickly, even our knitting! Here is a blouse that will be made in no time—a jiffy-knit worked on large needles in a lacy stitch. It is in the same stitch throughout even to the butterfly sleeves that are perky and cool. Shetland floss is an effective and practical yarn to use—you need only four balls to make this blouse. Together with a plain knitted skirt, directions for which come with the pattern, you can have a smart two-piece dress in short time.

SUPERVISORS FACING HUGE BUDGET JOB

Seeking Way to Meet Higher Costs and Keep Taxes Down

By PAUL VISSMAN

Facing an ever-growing wall of necessary expenditures in county government, members of the board of supervisors today looked for a way to scale it at a minimum cost to the taxpayers.

Budget requests of all departments have been turned in to County Auditor W. T. Lambert and the supervisors are now facing their most difficult task in many years. These requests must be scanned and pared down in such a manner that the functions of government will not be hampered, and at the same time the tax rate must be kept at such a level that no necessary burden will be thrown upon the already bowed shoulders of the taxpayer.

Paring of budget requests from the various departments will be difficult, say the supervisors, as the heads of these departments already have revised their requests many times before submitting them to the board. Every county official has realized the burden added to the county through recent legislation and eliminated from the budget of his department everything not absolutely necessary to operation for the next fiscal year, it was said.

Difficulty increased in preparing the budget and setting a tax rate for the fiscal year of 1935-36 has been increased by several factors. Principal among these are: The increasing county population, which naturally has increased the cost of normal government to a point that probably will equal that of pre-depression years; tax moratoriums that have added to the cost of government through the crossing of the duties of tax collecting bodies; the distressed condition of the population that has added materially to the cost of operating the county hospital and welfare departments; one extra election to be held this year, the financial burden of which has been placed upon the county to gain an expression of the voters on three state propositions; legislative action lowering the age limits on old age pensions and establishing a minimum payment which infers an increase.

Probably the greatest blow to the hopes of maintaining the 92-cent tax rate of last year was dealt, according to county officials and interested observers, by the recent shift of the federal relief program and throwing back upon the county more than 600 persons termed as unemployable. The new government program calls for federal cooperation in a direct works program with the county being asked to finance the providing of equipment, material and supervisors for all projects up to 20 per cent of the cost. It has been estimated that this matching program, if adopted, will cost the county more than $500,000.

It has been indicated that Orange county's share of the federal allotment to California for work relief this year will approximate $2,000,000. Members of the board of supervisors have pointed out that if duplication of federal and county programs could be eliminated and the entire allotment turned over to the county government for disbursement and administration, a program could be planned that would provide persons on work relief greater advantages and at the same time give the county greater benefits for the money expended than can be obtained under the present proposed program.

Increase Demanded

The federal government already has demanded that the welfare budget for the county be increased approximately $200,000 to care for so-called unemployables returned as county charges. This requirement when combined with the proposal that the cities and political subdivisions provide at least a half million dollars for participation in the work relief program, presents a staggering total for welfare alone, supervisors say.

Another obstacle in the path of the supervisors in holding down this year's tax rate is that during the past five years the supervisors in all their activities have operated on a purely maintenance basis. Because of that fact it now becomes necessary to replace considerable road machinery, automotive equipment and office equipment, all of which will require a capital investment.

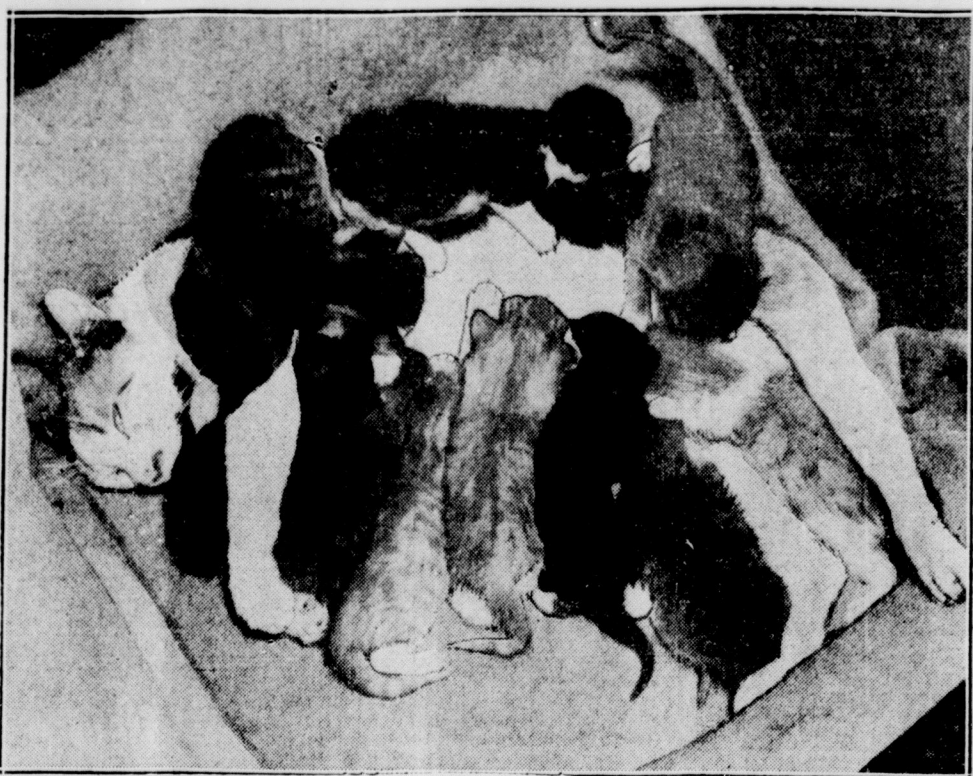

The operation of equipment on a purely maintenance basis during the past five years was done in an effort to ease the load of taxpayers during the period they were hardest hit through the economic depression. Members of the board now are facing the necessity of either replacing worn-out equipment or reducing road maintenance and other county service.

Costs Increased

At the same time government costs have been increased through no fault of local governing bodies. Cooperation of the county in government development projects and the action of voters in substituting one method of taxation for another and the elimination of practically all the automobile tax collected for county purposes has made the task increasingly difficult, county officials point out.

Under provisions of the law recently adopted by the voters, the share of the personal property tax on automobiles, which in the past was turned over to the county, has been cut from 12½ per cent to 9½ per cent. Under provisions of the new law 25 per cent of the total tax collected will go to the various cities. The county and state will divide the balance, with the county receiving 12½ per cent of what remains after the cities get their share.

Cooperation with the government in developing Newport harbor also has added its financial burden of bonds and maintenance cost, as has cooperation in working out projects to be developed with relief funds. Plans and specifications for all these projects were worked up on county money in an effort to secure aid on worth-while projects such as the county flood control program.

One of the most serious phases of the entire situation is that the county no longer has a large financial reserve with which to meet the increasing expenses, it was said. Through former years drastic cuts were made in county expenditures and practically all county funds had healthy balances with which to meet emergencies. These funds are now depleted and next year the first payment on emergency funds borrowed from the state will be due.

More than two years ago when the $200,000 state relief bond issue was approved, Orange county's share was fixed at $600,000. This amount, it was pointed out at the time, would be the amount the county would have to pay whether the money was used or not. The funds were utilized in providing relief. In 1937 the first payment of 10 per cent will be due and must be met from the gasoline tax fund.

Commenting on the task facing them at present, the supervisors have said that it had been hoped the county would be in a position this year to follow the lead of the state and many counties and cities in restoring pay reductions to employees. This hope has been abandoned for the present, and now the

CAR FINISHES 150-HOUR RUN

Driving a stock Willys 77 sedan, Bob McKenzie, road champion driver, recently completed a 150-hour continuous non-motor-stop run in the San Joaquin valley, according to Mr. Bellows, manager of Willys Santa Ana Motor company.

Equipped with a police radio unit installation by the Fresno police authorities, the Willys 77 demonstrated its economy and power as it cruised between various police headquarters and Willys dealerships in the valley.

An official touch to the procedure was given when the car was actually used for radio-patrol work by the peace authorities of several cities during the run. "The handling of this car proved to me its absolute practicality for this line of work," McKenzie declared. Its extreme economy, plus wide power reserve and durability makes it ideal for getting into 'tight' spots ordinarily inaccessible with a heavier and clumsier automobile.

The sedan, driven by McKenzie, was of the same type which recently established a speed record of over 75 miles per hour, covering 1567 miles in one day at Mud Dry lake.

board is attempting to figure some magic whereby government requirements can be met and, at the same time, the taxpayer be protected from a higher tax rate.

Feeling Well Today?

By DR. IAGO GALTSTON

Trichinosis: I

The disease trichinosis is produced by a worm, the female of which in the adult form measures about one-sixth of an inch and the male about one-sixteenth. The work gains entrance into the eye man body when infected pig meat is eaten.

Once it was thought that the disease was comparatively rare in the United States. More recent studies have revealed that it is more widespread than believed. Thus, the worm was found in 17.5 per cent of 344 autopsy cases studied in Rochester, N. Y. In another study conducted in Boston 27.6 per cent of the bodies examined contained encysted worms.

Symptoms Variable

The symptoms of trichinosis are in the man so variable that they are easily confounded with other disease conditions.

In a recently reported analysis of 35 cases, only 11 of them were at once diagnosed as trichinosis, despite the fact that in each instance the history of the patient was carefully surveyed and a complete physical examination was made.

The remaining 24 cases later definitely established to be trichinosis were first diagnosed as acute kidney disease, acute respiratory infection, typhoid fever, gastroenteritis, erysipelas, lead poisoning, etc.

Tests Aid Diagnosis

Fortunately, we have developed certain laboratory tests by means of which we can definitely establish the diagnosis of trichinosis. One of these consists in a study of the blood cells for the presence of one type of cell called the eosinophil.

Another test consists in injecting under the skin a very minute quantity of an extract made from the worm. In the person infected, a blanched wheal makes its appearance at the site of injection within five minutes.

This reaction does not appear in a patient until about two weeks after infection has taken place. Still, it is of value because the symptoms of trichinosis readily suggest other diseases, and unless properly differentiated, serious and unnecessary and improper medical and surgical treatment might be undertaken.

Talks to Parents

—By Brooke Peters Church

THE FAMILY

For years now it has been fashionable to deprecate the family. Educators and psychiatrists have tended to blame all the failures and misfits of humanity on early environment and family influence. The child was subject to a domineering father or a neurotic mother, or was given a conviction of inferiority by brilliant or self-assertive brothers and sisters.

Many people blithely foretold the extinction of the family and looked forward to a world of institutions, forgetting the findings of past experience which shows that even a poor home generally produces better human material than a good institution.

Need Personal Touch

Children need personal touch. They are unable to understand what they cannot see or feel. Abstractions are quite beyond their powers of comprehension. Love, loyalty, both essential to mankind if it is to advance, can be taught to the child only through personal experience. Often he cannot be cared for and educated by the impersonal hands of the state, and still develop to the highest those qualities which make for stability and high purpose.

Family Like World

The family is the microcosm of the world, the small copy written in big letters for the child to understand, of the large edition with which he must later cope. His father may be domineering, but so may his boss later on; his mother may be a neurotic, but the world is full of neurotics.

He must always be prepared to meet men who are better than he in every walk of life. The man who lays on others the blame for his own failure would not have succeeded in any event, for he lacks character. Personality, that unfathomable quality called will, needs to be stressed rather than the fatalism of yielding to circumstances.

SUNDOWN STORIES

By Mary Graham Bonner

"I'll have to make a dash through this town," thought Rip. "I don't like having so many people around and I've got to get such a lot of buildings, but I remember that the train stopped right in a city for the children came to see me then and told me so, not knowing I understood human talk."

"Yes, I'm going in the right direction, but I've got to get through this place quickly."

Poor Rip! He darted out of the way of automobiles, he narrowly escaped being run over by a truck, he bumped into a child by mistake and the child fell.

Then some one cried "Mad dog," and policemen began chasing Rip and everyone joined in the chase.

"Mad dog," they cried, "Mad dog, catch him! Catch him!" Rip knew he was fighting for his life. He knew he was not a mad dog, but how could he explain that without Willy Nilly to talk for him?

He was lost, lost without Willy Nilly. But the thought of the little man kept him going. With his ears flung back, with tongue hanging out Rip ran with everyone after him.

At last he knew they were going to get him for cars were coming along now with whistling sirens giving them the right of way.

He dashed into the first place that he saw. A number of men were there and in the background were big red fire engines. Rip sank to the floor. The cars with policemen and shrieking sirens had arrived, too. Into the firehouse they came.

"A mad dog just ran in here," one of them said.

MISSIONS BEAT ANGEL BAND

(By the Associated Press)

Making his debut in a Pacific Coast league uniform, Vic Frazier, recent addition to Los Angeles' pitching staff from Cincinnati, was knocked from the box by those in-again-out-again Missions as they defeated the Angels 6 to 3.

Oscar Eckhardt did the heavy stick work yesterday, getting three hits to continue leading the league in batting honors and the Missions regained second place just one game behind San Francisco.

Ducks Come Through

Portland turned on the heat in the last two innings of the series opener against Sacramento to defeat the Solons, 6 to 2. Art Herring held the Ducks to but two runs until the closing stages of the game, when six Beaver hits were converted into four runs. Don Johnson connected for the circuit for the Sacs.

Seattle broke its three-way tie with Oakland and Hollywood by drubbing the slipping Aorns, 5 to 1, as the Tribe put on a five-run rally in the last three frames after being blanked for six innings by Bill Ludolph.

Gibson Wins Twelfth

Sad Sam Gibson, veteran Seal right-hander, chalked up his twelfth victory in 13 starts as he pitched his club to a 4 to 2 win over Hollywood. Les Powers, Joe di Maggio and Lenny Backer, who form the Seals' murderer's row, did the heavy sticking, each getting two hits in four trips to the plate. George Myatt's booting of Hal Rhynne's grounder turned the tide for the Seals in the sixth. Backer scored on the boggle, and a long fly by Vincent Monzo scored Rhynne to decide the game. Gibson struck out nine men.

STARS WOBBLE IN NET PLAY

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—Seeded entrants in the annual invitation tennis singles of the boating and tennis club, wobble in yesterday's play, were expected to find the going rough as the tournament progressed today.

Frankie Parker, defending champion and pre-tournament favorite, failed to retain his crown, turned in an unimpressive performance in eliminating Armand L. Bruneau, Brooklyn veteran, yesterday, 6-1, 6-3.

Only a strong service and some good forehand shots saved the second round for him. Many were waging that he would not reach the final round.

Wilbur Hess, new national intercollegiate champion from Fort Worth, Tex.; William Reese of Atlanta, and Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., who defeated Parker last week in the Kentucky state championship, were the popular choices to win after yesterday's play.

ALABAMA PITTS BATTING .183

ALBANY, N. Y., Wednesday, July 10. (AP)—After a month with the Albany Senators of the International league, Edwin C. (Alabama) Pitts has discovered the greatest obstacle to making the grade in professional baseball is his batting eye.

The former Sing Sing prison athlete, whose eligibility caused a national sports controversy, has played in 14 games since joining the Senators, and his batting average is .183. His fielding has been above reproach, however.

Pitts' throwing arm has bothered him, but he has shown steady improvement under the guidance of General Manager Johnny Evers and Manager Al Mammarux.

His batting record to date follows: Games, 13; at bat, 49 times; runs, 5; hits, 9; runs batted in, 3; average, .183.

CHEST BOARD SETS BUDGET OVER PROTEST OF SALVATION ARMY

$31,237 IS TO BE GOAL OF CAMPAIGN

Amount for Army Too Small, Says Group's Representative

With the Salvation Army the only "hold-out" in the group of organizations comprising the Santa Ana Community Chest, the budget presented yesterday afternoon to the chest board of directors by Harry Hanson, chairman of the budget committee, received the enthusiastic support of all other organizations. It was adopted with only one dissenting vote, that of J. G. Mitchell, chairman of the Salvation Army advisory board.

The campaign will be conducted in October, dates for which have not yet been fixed.

In voting against the budget which proposes raising $31,237.50, Mr. Mitchell said he was voting as a representative of the Salvation Army, but that he personally was in favor of it. The budget as it stands, the Salvation Army had asked for an allotment of $6,864.30, and only $5500 was set aside for it in the budget.

Mr. Mitchell said that in a conversation with Adjutant John F. Purdy of Los Angeles, Mr. Purdy intimated that unless the amount requested was granted by the chest board of directors, the Salvation Army would withdraw from the organization and conduct its own campaign to raise funds.

The $31,237.50 set as the goal in the chest drive is divided among six organizations as follows: Ruth Home, $750; Veterans' Welfare, $500; Boy Scouts, $5000; Salvation Army, $5500; Y. M. C. A., $9500, and Y. W. C. A., $5500. With the exception of the Ruth Home and Veterans' Welfare, all the other organizations had asked for more than the budget committee had allotted them. The Boy Scouts requested $5500, the Salvation Army $6864, the Y. M. C. A. $10,982 and the Y. W. C. A. $6018.

Warren K. Sullivan, chairman of the board of the chest, expressed his belief that with the figure to be raised set as low as it is, there should be little difficulty in raising the amount required. He also asked the cooperation of residents in assisting in the drive, stating that the amount to be raised represents less than one dollar per capita population of Santa Ana.

50,000,000 Acres Ruined
Mr. Brown said that a nationwide survey by the soil conservation service revealed that approximately 50,000,000 acres of fertile land have been ruined for practical crop use by erosion. Another like area is in almost as bad condition. Furthermore, an area of 125,000,000 acres, most of it still under cultivation, has lost all or most of its top soil, while on other large areas erosion is getting under way.

"The world is strewn with ruins of once flourishing civilizations destroyed by erosion, particularly in Syria, Turkey and China, but these lands were cultivated for thousands of years before abandonment was necessary," said Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg in commenting on the problem.

"Vegetation on the earth is likened to the skin on our bodies. Remove a large portion of the skin and terrible sores result. Denuding of millions of acres of the richest land in the country has resulted in erosion; huge sores upon the earth.

Recovery Not Simple
"Recovery from the disease of erosion is not a simple matter. Obviously we cannot return to pre-settlement conditions. The nation has its roots in agriculture and if the nation is to continue, agriculture must continue. We cannot raise crops in the woods. We cannot harvest crops from the unbroken prairie. But we must make some concessions to nature whose laws we cannot repeat even if they are irksome.

"Protection and production are not necessarily incompatible. With a system of correct land use we can farm much of our soil and keep it, too. We cannot safely farm all of it to clean-tilled, erosion-producing crops. Some of the steeper and more erosive land must be in trees or grass. These crops anchor the soil. Like the skin on our bodies they protect the earth from the disease of erosion."

FAILINGS ARE BLAMED FOR LONG DEATH

BEVERLY HILLS, Wednesday, July 10. (P)—Ray Long, 57, once one of the country's leading magazine editors and publishers, lay dead today, apparently a suicide victim.

Believed to have been discouraged over the wane of successful literary enterprise that was his for more than a score of years, Long was found fatally wounded late yesterday in the bedroom of his Beverly Hills home. Police officers found a small rifle nearby. Long died a short time later in an emergency hospital as a hurried operation was attempted to save his life.

Known as the man who guided a host of writers to fame and wealth, who translated the public's reading tastes into money-making publications, Long's death was marked by an enigmatic twist. He left no note, as far as could be found, explaining his act.

"There is no doubt it was a suicide," said A. G. Peterson, Beverly Hills officer, who investigated the death.

Mildred Temple, Long's secretary for 15 years, could give no reason for his death, and Mrs. Lucy Bovie Long, his widow, said at her home last night in Greenwich Conn., that she did not know whether she would come West immediately.

Long, who guided to prominence such present day writers as O. O. McIntyre, Peter B. Kyne, Damon Runyan, Ring Lardner, and many others, had worked in an executive capacity here for Columbia, Fox and Metro-Goldwyn Mayer Studios after retiring from the Eastern magazine field.

Sought New Job
Just last Saturday Long conferred with officials at a newly-organized company concerning a contract. The official later described him as "somewhat beaten down."

A short time ago Long was named Western editor of Liberty magazine, and subsequently assumed an editor's post on Photoplay, a fan magazine. While these positions and his studio work were well paid, they hardly compared to the peak of his career. For 12 years he was editor of Cosmopolitan magazine and president-editor of the International Magazine company, publisher of Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping and other journals.

POSTMEN HAVE EYES ON BILL

Employees of the Santa Ana postoffice had their periscopes trained on the senate today, to watch the outcome of a bill which would give them a 40-hour week.

The senate postoffice committee yesterday reported favorably on the measure, which has passed the house of representatives. However, the committee amended it to make it effective October 1 instead of July 1, an Associated Press dispatch said.

Postmaster T. E. Stephenson said it is impossible now to forecast what adjustments would have to be made here if the bill becomes a law, but that it might mean that the three substitute clerks and three substitute carriers would be assured of full-time jobs.

The present schedule calls for a 44-hour week, which went into effect July 1, 1931. At that time local postoffices began closing at 1 p. m. on Saturdays in order to reduce the working hours. If additional work for substitutes does not result from the proposed schedule, some other adjustment such as shorter open hours for finance windows at the postoffice might have to be made, Mr. Stephenson said.

The Associated Press dispatch said the bill would affect 165,000 postal employees and would cost $22,000,000 annually, indicating that additional employees might be contemplated.

1935 Poultry Year Better
Although 1934 was a year of low returns generally for poultrymen, 1935 will have a much brighter ending, in the opinion of Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory. Mr. Cory has just completed analysis of the 1934 records of a group of poultry producers, and a summary of eight years' poultry production costs and returns.

Feed prices in 1934 were relatively high as compared to prices received for eggs. For 1935, however, a better ratio prevails, Mr. Cory said.

The average price received for market eggs in 1934 was 21.2 cents per dozen, while the average

U. S. SEES ANAHEIM PARK Photos Appear In 'Monitor'
Throughout the nation last week went pictorial stories of the beauties of Anaheim park, when photographs taken by Charles C. Blanchard of 1108 French street, Santa Ana, were printed in the Tuesday, July 2, edition of The Christian Science Monitor.

Four close shots of the water lily pond comprise the photographic display. One picture, taken directly over the lilies, shows the full blossoms and well-shaped petals. Another catches the rhythm and shadows of the pansies grass along the edge of the lily pond.

The pictures were taken more than a year ago as part of a group which Mr. Blanchard snapped with a finely made hand camera. Some of the pictures appeared in previous editions of The Monitor. Last week's display illustrated a series of articles on water gardens on the weekly garden page of the paper.

An amateur photographer since 1898, Mr. Blanchard has taken pictures of scenic spots from Maine to California. In 1929, his pictures of Yosemite Falls were printed in "Photo-Era," a photography magazine, and one of his views was used as a cover picture. Several thousand prints are included in his collection of photos, Mr. Blanchard said.

PROPERTY OF HAPSBURG RESTORED

VIENNA, Wednesday, July 10. (P)—The federal diet today unanimously passed a bill revoking punishments against the former ruling family of the Hapsburgs and restoring to the Hapsburgs their confiscated property.

As soon as President Miklas signs the measure, it becomes a law.

By it, the Archduke Otto, Europe's most discussed young man, regains his ancestral properties.

It was reported today that he has adopted the brain trust idea for working out imperial aims.

A monarchist, just returned from a visit to Stoenckerszell castle in Belgium, seat of exile of the pretender to the Austrian throne, said Otto is organizing a quasi-cabinet of the best monarchist minds.

Miss Edith Bailey Tells of Engagement to Oakland Man at Smart Tea in Home

Flowers Tell Romantic Story

Mrs. Paul Bailey Hostess With Daughter to Group of Friends at Party

Spicy white carnations tied with white tulle and maidenhair ferns in corsages for the arriving guests at a tea given yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Paul L. Bailey home, 311 East Washington street, by Mrs. Bailey and her daughter, Miss Edith Bailey, served to announce the engagement of Miss Bailey to Walter Drayce Gibbins, son of the late Walter G. Gibbins and Mrs. Gibbins of Oakland.

Tiny parchment cards attached to the flower stems told the romantic news, and Miss Bailey further informed her friends that the marriage date has been set for October.

Was Honor Student

The bride-elect followed her graduation from Santa Ana High school and Junior college by attending University of California at Berkeley, from which she was graduated in '34. She was a member of Phi Mu sorority. In Santa Ana she was an honor student and was prominent in swimming and other sports. She has been working in Berkeley.

Mr. Gibbins, whose family was a pioneer one in Alturas county, attended Berkeley High school and the University of California at Berkeley, where he was a member of Delta Sigma Lambda fraternity. He is now employed by the Texas company, the terminal department, in Oakland.

In receiving her guests, Miss Bailey wore a smart shirtmaker hostess gown of burnt orange crepe with brown accents, white satin sandals and graceful corsage of gardenias and bouvardia. Her mother wore black crepe and lace.

Decorations Beautiful

Also at the door was Mrs. Fred Rowland, who wore flowered chiffon with gay little velvet bows at the neckline. The living room was pretty with bowls of summer flowers in pastels and white.

For the earlier part of the afternoon, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh and Mrs. E. D. White presided at the tea table. Mrs. Slabaugh was in deep blue lace, and Mrs. White in flowered chiffon. A centerpiece of white snapdragons, Shasta daisies, gladioli and baby breath was combined effectively with tall ivory tapers in silver candelabra, and silver services were used for the tea, with which were served tiny open face sandwiches, cakes and mints. Mrs. Fred R. Jayne, wearing a white shirtmaker formal, and Mrs. J. E. Paul, in blue lace, relieved the servers later in the day.

Others Assist

Assisting with the serving were Miss Helena Bailey, sister of the honoree, in a becoming blue flowered frock with drop-shoulder sleeves, and a narrow blue ribbon in her hair; Miss Betty Lee, in pink organza with wide white sleeves and around the full skirt; Miss Helen Wieseman, in flowered silk frock; Miss Doris Keeler, wearing plaid organza in green and ivory, with green sash; Miss Katherine Chapman in green and white flowered crepe; and Miss Betty Goode in white organza ruffled around the square neckline and the skirt and an afternoon tiara in her hair.

Miss Bailey, who has been in Santa Ana for a few weeks with her parents, plans to return to the north Saturday.

SUNSHADES MATCH GOWNS LONDON (AP)—Sunshades that match summer gowns are also rain-proofed.

Mary Stoddard

Answers Intimate Questions and Solves Problems of the Heart and Home; Write Her.

What is the true interpretation of the marriage vow, "For richer, for poorer, for better or for worse, until death do us part?"

So often when married couples are called upon to fulfill these vows either one or the other follow a false light.

One couple face this test. The wife writes the problem in the following letter:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I suppose there are many people who have the same trouble I am having. Maybe they can tell me what to do. Since we were married several years ago my husband has been unable to get work, and so I have had to carry on. I really don't mind this so much.

But now my husband has gotten the idea that because I am working and he isn't that he is no use to me whatever, and is a burden to me, and so he wants to leave me, leave Santa Ana entirely and go away some place.

Of course, I try to stop him from going. I didn't marry him just to have him leave when things got hard; I married him for better or worse, however old-fashioned that idea might be, and I intend to do everything in my power to keep him with me.

But here's the problem—he says if I loved him I wouldn't try to keep him when his pride says he should go away. He says that any man in his right mind would do the same thing.

I have persuaded him to wait awhile and in the meantime I would like to know what you think of it so that I can meet his arguments with some common sense advice.

TROUBLED WIFE. In what you term your husband's "pride" is born a masculine trait so dominant, so strong in the breast of every real man that no circumstance could entirely efface it. It is a forceful law of nature, not only found in the human race, but the animal kingdom as well.

Your husband is to be pitied more than blamed. It is his inherent right to play the role of breadwinner.

On the other hand, your husband should view the situation in a sane and sensible manner. If he were assured of work some where else, he would be justified in going. If he left simply because accepting temporary support at your hands irked him, and in going away he would simply be forced into a trap along the highway, he ought to stay yet a little while and hope for the inevitable cloud that has the silver lining.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women. If there is a question that interests or puzzles you, suggest it, and we will collect opinions on it for you!

What feature interested you most at the San Diego exposition?

Mrs. H. D. Pickering—I particularly enjoyed the better housing exhibit and the miniature buildings shown.

Mrs. R. C. Smedley—The Ford exhibit with its miniature replica of Dearborn village, and the accompanying organ concert, interested me very much.

Mrs. J. H. Dwyer—The Old Globe theater was fascinating and the plays were delightful. I enjoyed the Ford exhibit because before seeing it, I had no conception of how automobiles are assembled.

Mrs. R. A. McMahon—The palace of education was especially interesting to me, with its exhibits of clever work done by pupils in the elementary and higher grades of school.

Mrs. T. L. Warren—All of the exhibits interested me, but the most beautiful feature of the exposition was the colored lighting on Palm canyon with its rustic footbridge. I thought the fountains on the grounds were very lovely, too.

Prizes in the games and contests which entertained the guests went to June Masin, Stanley Giles, and Rene Carrillo.

Present at the party were June, Charles and Joan Masin, Rene and Raoul Carrillo, Margaret Baker, Raymond Baise, Stanley Giles, Ann Russell, Edna Lee Russell, Phyllis Hamner, Mary Alice Ecklund, Jeannette Jones and Charlene Hill of Santa Ana, Barbara Jean Schmidt of Hollywood, Bobby Sevilla and Allan Dale Dike of Long Beach.

FOR THE KIDDIES

The Journal wants to give its readers at least one tasty tried-and-true recipe each day. We know all good cooks are modest about telling their recipes, but won't you please help fill this corner by giving us your favorite ones? Call 3600 or address The Cook's Corner.

SNOW PIE

By Mrs. G. E. Burns
1209 Spurgeon
Mix 3/4 cup sugar, 1 heaping tablespoonful cornstarch, 1 pinch of salt. Pour over this 1 cup of boiling water. Let cook until fairly thick and about the color of white mixed starch. When cool, not cold, add vanilla and lemon flavoring, and stiffly beaten whites of three eggs.

Pour in baked shell and cover with whipped cream.

MOSAIC SANDWICHES

By Mrs. E. B. Sprague
1930 Victoria Drive
Blend one small cream cheese and two and one-half tablespoons of peanut butter. Season highly with salt and paprika. Cut three slices each of white and dark graham bread one-half inch in thickness. Spread slice of white bread and place a slice of graham upon it. Spread this with mixture and place on it a slice of white bread. Repeat this process, beginning with a slice of graham bread.

Put both piles in a cool place under a light weight, and let stand until butter is cold. Remove weight and cut each pile in half-inch slices. Spread two of these layers with prepared mixture, and put together in such a way that a white block will alternate with a graham one, making a checkerboard appearance.

Wrap in cheese cloth and again place under a light weight in a cool place. Slice evenly.

The one-piece suit in candlewick effect worn by the darling little figure at top combines red with navy and has no back.

Colorful checks make the beach ensemble at lower right which unites a brief double-breasted jacket with slacks and a white zephyr sweater.

A beach party will be held July 17 in the cove near Corona Del Mar. Luncheon will be served at a Lenore McFarren, Mildred Pearson, Phyllis Heske and Marian Pietke are in charge of the event.

July 22 has been set for the first of a series of singing parties where music of the ritual can be rehearsed. Miss Mildred Pearson, hostess to the first party.

MEET THE WIFE

Mrs. Arturo Toscanini

Mrs. Arturo Toscanini was Carla de Martini before the greatest living conductor married her 40-odd years ago. She is not a practicing musician, but knows much about music and the drama. She even makes suggestions to her husband on occasion. She is just turned 60, has three children: Walter, Wally, and Wanda, all beginning with "W" because there's a family superstition. She is a good Italian home-maker. She is a good shopper. She is an inveterate 5-and-10 explorer. She is devoted to her two grandchildren. She is also devoted to Piccini, who is a Belgian griffin. She is the only dog in the world to attend a Toscanini concert. He sits in the Toscanini box at most rehearsals and many concerts.

Contract Club Entertained In Home

Members of her informal contract bridge club were entertained by Mrs. Parke S. Roper yesterday afternoon in her home, 809 Oak street.

Taking part in the play were Mrs. E. E. Richardson, Mrs. Bob Robinson and Mrs. Nellen of Victorville, friends of the hostess, who substituted for Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell and Mrs. Addie M. Collins.

Other members present were Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. L. A. Collier, Mrs. J. L. Clarke and Mrs. Rowland P. Yeagle.

ROBERT JONES HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY AT EL MODENA

EL MODENA.—Mrs. Dick Jones gave a birthday party in honor of the eighth birthday of her son, Robert L., yesterday afternoon. Games, including horseback riding, were enjoyed on the grounds of the Jones ranch, and at the close of the afternoon, ice cream and birthday cake were served. Favors of airplanes were also given.

Those at the party were Barbara Krueger, Sallie Fisk, Betty Mae McBride, Marion Armstrong, Cordelia Kenny, Violet Neilson, Jack Moore, Robert Walters, James Beutel, Kenneth Miller, Donald Miller, Junior Niebles, Myron Lemble, Allen Marshburn, Charles Jones, and Rex Hastings. Mrs. Jones was assisted by her sister, Mrs. R. D. Hastings, of Yorba Linda and Miss Anna Miller of El Modena.

PROBATION CONTINUED

Presiding Judge James L. Allen continued probation for David Foley Tuesday with the understanding that Foley spend the next 60 days working at the county hospital. Foley's probationary term, following his conviction sometime ago on a fictitious check charge, still has two years to run. He was brought into court on a charge of violating the terms of his probation.

NATIONS PREPARE FOR WAR

THE world rubs its eyes and looks at the calendar, to reassure itself that the year is 1935, as an astounding series of events takes place in Europe and Africa.

Western civilization, with its ideal of peace, progress, justice and rights of peoples, finds it hard to endure the prospective spectacle of deliberate, planned conquest of little Abyssinia at the hands of big, powerfully armed Italy.

In most wars, the issues are confused. But Haile Selassie, the intelligent ruler of the Abyssinians, has prevented such confusion. He has asked for justice, impartial neutral arbitration, of every difference and every border incident. He has pledged himself in advance to abide by decisions of such impartial bodies. Further, he has offered substantial concessions, including the ceding of sovereign territory, to placate the ambitions of Mussolini. He has called on the League of Nations for help. He has attempted to invoke the Kellogg peace pact. He has stated in advance his intentions to adhere to the Red Cross convention.

Meanwhile, Mussolini sends boatload after boatload of troops to the Italian colonies bordering on Abyssinia, demanding nothing less than possession of that entire nation.

Italy is still a member of the League of Nations. Italy's troop ships are passing through the British owned Suez canal. What a situation!

It is true that England, and even our nation in the Mexican war, have waged wars of conquest in the past hundred years. But in these wars, soldiers have been preceded by pioneers. The government we fought against allowed provocations. Popular feeling led to spontaneous conflict.

You have to go back much farther than a hundred years to find an example of a projected war comparable to this one—one man coldly ordering a reluctant nation to back reluctant soldiers, fighting in disease-ridden tropical jungles to subject a long independent race, led by an enlightened ruler appealing to the rest of the world for justice and help.

The Italian-Abyssinian dispute is not America's business. There is too great a field for charity at home and nearer to home to justify our getting entangled in this affair in any way.

But humanity demands that our government make sure that we supply no ammunition or help of any kind to the Italian project. Humanity forces us to tremble for the self-respect, the very integrity of our European cousins who find themselves associated with the Italian government in any way.

'ARISTOCRATIC' STANFORD

STANFORD girls stand a better chance of getting married than those of any other college in the country, according to a survey recently completed by a woman graduate of Pennsylvania's Quaker Swarthmore.

This is not surprising in view of the fact that the number of women students at Stanford has been limited to about one-fifth of the number of men. Yet there is an offset in the further fact that scholarship counts in selecting this limited number, and that scholarship and sex appeal are popularly supposed to be incompatible. We have always suspected that it was just a foolish notion.

University of California girls, on the contrary, are too much given over to celibacy. Mrs. Caroline Robinson of Swarthmore reports. And she finds that it has something to do with the fact that the Berkeley university is a "truly great metropolitan university" while she speaks of Stanford as "aristocratic."

How Senator Leland Stanford would turn over in his grave were he to hear that! His ideal of Stanford was a tuition-free college where poor boys would specialize in practical subjects and prepare themselves to master the machine for the benefit of themselves and the race. The self-made Herbert Hoover was his ideal of the Stanford man, and Dr. David Starr Jordan's too. It is a strange trick of circumstances that forced an impoverished Stanford to charge a relatively high tuition fee and thus move into the class of "aristocratic" institutions.

WHITHER WEATHER?

(Christian Science Monitor)

THE WORLD is growing warmer, Earl Chapin informs it in an erudite and fascinating article in the July Forum. This asseveration may cause considerable eyebrow lifting on the part of those who have shivered at a picnic in England on one of the poet's rare days in June, or spent a large part of a New England July Fourth struggling to relight the furnace. But facts are facts, and Mr. Chapin has lots of them on hand. Here are one or two.

In Holland, for instance, the traditional notion of a nation living on skates all winter is fast becoming a myth. The canals just refuse to freeze over. In Siberia, where forty years ago perpetual frost at the depth of two meters existed in some areas, there is now no frost at any depth, not even in the marshes. Trees are now growing in parts of Alaska that for 100,000 years have been nothing but cold, barren waste lands. If this sort of thing continues, the reader may conclude that the Hudson Bay will eventually become a subtropical lake. Cheerfully, Mr. Chapin reminds him that, before the Pleistocene or Glacial period, it was just that and may again become so.

Unfortunately, amid the wealth of information so interestingly described by the author, he utterly fails to hold out any hope for "perfect" weather. The suburban maid-of-all-work who turned the hand of the barometer to "Fair and Warmer" the night before her weekly day off came as near to doing that as anybody. After all, though, perhaps the idiosyncrasies of climate are easier to be endured than the arid deserts of silence in parlor conversation that would ensue if the weather suited everybody.

Herford is 72 years old now and it is likely the era of wise cracking and his suddenly

Not only is Herford a jester in

MOPEY DICK AND THE DUKE
"What a town without a library? Where do you go to take a nap?"

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, July 10.—Presidential advisers admit, off the record, that the house of representatives has them worried.

Its recent transition from complete docility to a truculent defiance is one of the most significant developments of the political year.

When the legislative wheels first began grinding, it was the senate which was "Peck's bad boy" of Capitol Hill. It would be far from accurate to say that the senate has now been roped and hog-tied. It is a fact that since its early belligerence on the works-relief bill, the senate has worked in fairly close harmony with the White House.

All of the major "must" measures—holding company, Wagner labor disputes, social security, NRA and TVA—emerged from the senate in forms satisfactory to the President.

But the house, which started as a lamb, is now a raging lion. After ridiculing the holding company bill, it is threatening to perform the same operation on the TVA amendments.

THIRD RATERS

IT IS an extraordinary fact, but not one of the top-rung democratic herd-riders is a strong figure.

Speaker Joe Byrns, Acting Floor Leader John Taylor, Chairman John O'Connor of the rules committee, and Whip Pat Boylan, all are third-raters.

They owe their party eminence to two things only—seniority, plus the President's failure last December to back labor candidates for their posts.

Had he thrown his support to the latter—as he was urged to do—it is likely that a far different situation would exist in the house today. With hard-hitting leaders wholeheartedly supporting instead of covertly sabotaging him behind the scenes, Roosevelt probably could have won his major fights, including the "death sentence" clause in the holding company bill.

BOB LA FOLLETTE

When "Old Bob" LaFollette died in 1925, he had no notion of the career in store for his second son, "Young Bob."

A veteran Washington photographer recalls that when LaFollette posed for what was to be his last photograph, he said:

"I don't know what's to become of Bob. Phil is district attorney already. But Bob—well, I'm afraid I've held him back too much. I'll have to let him step out for himself."

Three months later he did step

NEW YORK—Ralph De Palma and George Robertson decided yesterday they would drive their coming five-mile match race at Brighton Beach, July 23, without mechanics. This is not usual, and in a long race would not be possible, as the mechanic is needed to keep the compression on the gas.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Americans have taught the people of the Chinese Empire to smoke cigars. This fact was made known today in a report by Consul General Charles Denby of Vienna in which he describes the class of foreign markets which may be created by Americans.

PUBLICITY PATIENT

BESPECTACLED HOMER CUMMINGS wiped his bald head and waited. Waiting also was publicity-brain but able J. Edgar Hoover, most feared sleuth in the criminal world. Pacing back and forth strode Henry Snydam, publicity-getting expert of the department of justice.

They were waiting for cameramen from the March of Time.

The directors of that newsreel had insisted on an appointment promptly at 6:30 p. m. They were to screen for the world the way J. Edgar Hoover tracks down Public Enemies. To accommodate the March of Time, all had stayed overtime. Even an electrician was detailed to be on hand to connect the Klieg lights.

Sixty-three came and went. Then seven. Then seven-thirty. Still no March of Time.

There is nothing amiable Homer Cummings loves more than good publicity. But this was too much. Finally at 7:45 he went home.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

THE securities-exchange commission is undergoing a housecleaning. Dynamic Joe Kennedy, chairman of the SEC and czar of Wall street, has begun to weed out inefficient personnel. He has been uncannily accurate in spotting the drones. . . . Russell Arundel, able secretary to Senator Metcalf, has a bushmaster snake waiting for him in Trinidad but can't get the Pan-American Airways to bring it up. Airways officials fear a crash in which the snake, one of the two deadliest in the world, would get loose. The snake is intended for the National Zoological Gardens in Washington and when it arrives it will be the only bushmaster in the United States. Meanwhile, the snake has not eaten for a month and may not live.

Resounding War In Abyssinia

International tranquility has been much weakened by Secretary Hull's skimmed-milk reply to Abyssinia's plea for moral support. Again world hopes for decent international relationships, born of the Paris peace pact, 1928, have gone glimmering. Once more does rampant militarism snort defiance and foreign departments quake as with the quake. If any one of the great signatories to the pact would give a resounding protest if Duce would probably pause to reflect. Of course, this Italian aggression is not our quarrel unless we have some vital concern in the maintenance of world peace. European powers have entangled themselves so hopelessly in intricate agreements and understandings that none seems able or willing to act.

Of course, Abyssinia must settle her own affairs and Emperor Haile Selassie has proudly sworn that she will do it. Most shrewdly he has won the moral support of the world by his display of patience and peaceful intentions, and has pilloried Mussolini as a wanton aggressor. Conflicts, in modern times, are much influenced by their moral setting. European powers have placed arms embargoes against Abyssinia while no such restrictions have been placed on Italy. This appears to

The quality you get these days is not so hot. The bootleggers sold better stuff in prohibition days—Lizzy Einstein, famous prohibition sleuth.

Pete Beissel is persistent. For the past seven years he has been trying to promote a lightweight contest between Harry Gail of Orange and the sponsor for this column. At the time the proposal was made the contestants stipulated that both must be feeling well at the same time. That time has never arrived and Pete is getting discouraged. Well, he says to wait as he can't find two other fellows who can take our place.

A close friend who is in the know says another war is scheduled for 1936. I do not care what the schedule is just so the train is late about five thousand years. By then time is world should be ready to adopt the "peace on earth" remedy, or be blown to smithereens.

The congregation with which I have a precarious affiliation has adopted the unified system of worship. This new arrangement calls for an earlier appearance of the worshiper. Under the new system your presence is required at 9:30 a. m., whereas under the old plan if you arrived as late as 10:45 there would still be space for you. The dismissal hour is 10:45. The only objection I have to the new way is it throws me into temptation for another hour, and my observation is that the earlier service removes none of that drowsy feeling.

By the way, after all the fuss the issue is that if you find out something about the inside of the church and what is going on.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

All four corners of the United States centered at Third and Main streets a few days ago. On one corner was an automobile from Belfast, Maine. Across the street the state of Washington was represented, and diagonally Florida fitted into the picture. California did not have to go far to get a place for her entry, so all four corners of the United States were represented. I've heard of hands across the sea, but this was an occasion where distance was merged into an intersection. Oh, well, what better place to meet than Santa Ana.

Paul Slavin confers with me about the copy for this department. It occurs to him that it's a job he does not want, so all worry from that source is over. But when Paul has a paragraph to add to the column he will be welcome as a drink of water to a parched throat.

Ralph Smedley has the evidence. Recording my business address for the information of a service club it reads 117 N. Fifth street, and the '1 of it is that's the way it reads. A. secretary could be that hard-hearted.
